

KURT SAYS: KEEP IT AMONG OURSELVES

Kurt will take you to Switzerland or beyond – whatever you prefer. We like the sound of Oman!

ideal route because, for example, it does matter if you ride a pass from one side or the other. Our selected itinerary is away from mass tourism and includes special highlights out of the ordinary. It is not monotonous or boring, on dedicated roads you may ride on your own and we meet later for example at the top of the pass, again. The target is to have great pleasure and fun with the best possible safety.

“You will see and experience things that most tourists have not. You’ll won’t find fast food or set menus but real good traditional and local cuisine. After all you don’t travel miles to eat the same food as at home. Each accommodation is carefully selected, no hotels that cater for bus-tourism, no buffet food, each hotel room has a view and I mean a real view and it is quiet and each customer gets called by their name.

For 2015 we will of course offer unique tours in Switzerland. Then from September to April we’ll have our tours to South Africa, the Philippines and Dubai with a new one including Oman. We will add our France Tours in the Alsace and a tour to the World War II battle field’s tour and two European Alps tour. There will be more wine and gourmet tours, too.” ●

“Our power lies in private tours!” writes Kurt Stauffer from Twincruiser Tours in Switzerland. Well, when we say “in Switzerland...” that’s where he’s based, but he runs tours all over the globe.

“That means a group of friends with more or less the same ideas and with about 4 to max. 6 riders with or without pillion passengers. We can make an exception and take max. 8 riders. We send them our questionnaire, they tell us what they want to see, their interests and budget and we offer them a tailored tour that they will remember.

“Of course the fewer people the more it will cost but the quality is better.

“With Twincruiser Tours you will travel behind a guide who has spent a lot of time to search the best and
